The U. S. Department of Labor Says---

"During the War it was patriotic not to build, now we can best show our patriotism by building."

You have no doubt contemplated some additions to your home or a new home entirely and you will find no better time to do this than right now. There is no likelihood that there will be a decrease in the price of building material for several years, so why not build now and enjoy the benefits of the new home that you have contemplated for such a long time.

Let us help you design your new house--
We can give you many valuable suggestions.
